BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN TRUNK IN CHINESE DEN

May Be Granddaughter of General Sigel, But Family
Fail to Identify Her.

TIED WITH ROPES AND STRANGLED TO DEATH

Letters and Tributes Found in Room Indicate That Girl Was Descendant of Civil War
Officer, Who Disappeared Several Weeks Ago.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Elizabeth Sigel, daughter of Paul Sigel, of this city, and granddaughter of the illustrious Franz Sigel, the German warrior who enlisted his services with the Union army during the Civil War, is according to all indications the victim of one of the most sordid murders in the history of New York. If she is not the victim, the police are confronted with a remarkable series of coincidental facts.

"Taken from a trunk in a room of a Chinaman above a chop-suey restaurant, the body, in a state of decomposition which makes identification difficult, lies in the morgue. When the story was told Mrs. Sigel, with as much tenderness as possible she cried: 'My God, Elsie!'"

Sun Leong, proprietor of the restaurant, who also conducted the rooming house above, disappeared shortly after the discovery of the murder, adding further to the mystery.

The case has many unusual features, notable among which is the fact that a Chinaman known to call at the Sigel home, presumably with the sanction of the parents, Elizabeth, or Elsie, was twenty years old, and was greatly interested in work among Chinamen.

Would Not Claim Her.

Mr. Sigel arrived at the morgue at midnight. Arrangements were made so that the badly disfigured face could be seen to best advantage, but Mr. Sigel would not say that it was his daughter. In fact, the police say, he declared positively that it was not, but he declined to look at various letters and other bits of evidence which would seem to indicate that it was his daughter.

Late to-night three Chinamen were arrested as material witnesses. Shortly after midnight Mrs. Florence M. Todd, a friend of the Sigel family, called at the morgue, and after viewing the body identified some of the underclothing as that worn by Elsie Sigel.

Mrs. Paul Sigel at 1:30 o'clock, when shown the Sigel girl in the trunk containing the body, identified it as that worn by her daughter Elsie. In their efforts toward establishing the identity of the young woman, and in their investigations, the police ran across Henry C. Barnell, who is interested in the Americanizing of Chinese. He gave the officers a valuable clue in that he described a Chinaman who formerly occupied the room where the body was found.

Barnell said he knew by sight only a young white woman who was interested in work among the Chinese, and he was inclined to think that the name was Sigel, although he was not sure of this.

The man who had occupied the room evidently left hastily, for there had been no effort to remove anything. He was apparently converted to Christianity, for there were about the room Bibles and prayer books containing names written in both English and in Chinese, which gave the information that he was known in English as William Lion, and in Chinese as Leong Lion Lum.

Paul Sigel late to-night went to the Eighth Avenue house, where the body was found, and examined the clothing the woman wore. He was unable, however, to identify any of the things as having belonged to his missing daughter, Elsie.

A letter with the initials, "E. C. S." or "P. C. S."—the letters were worn and hard to distinguish—was shown to Mr. Sigel, but he said he could not identify it. It was, however, a letter which was a letter when he last saw her. He suggested that the police send the letter to his wife, who lives in the Bronx, for identification. This was done.

According to Mr. Sigel, his daughter disappeared from home on June 10. Two days later the family got word from her in Washington, saying she was safe and would be home the following Monday night. Nothing, however, had been heard from her since. He gave her age as twenty years.

Number of Letters Found.

A number of letters, which the police expect will throw light on the case, were found in the room where the body was discovered. One written in English, addressed to the missing Chinaman, who occupied the room, but unsigned, warned him that if he did not stop paying attention to "Elsie Sigel" he would meet a very bad fate. The other letters found were written by a girl who signed herself "Elsie." A silver spangled bracelet, upon which were the initials "E. C. S." was found in a dresser in the room. Some text-books, a spelling and a geography owned by a missing Chinaman, contained rudimentary knowledge of the Chinese language. A plain envelope addressed to Miss Elizabeth Sigel, No. 209 Wadsworth Avenue, New York City, but empty, was also found in the room.

Sylvester Re-Elected.

DRIVEN FROM TRAIN

Catholic Priests Fall Victims to Angry Mob.

ULYSSES, N.E., June 18.—Eight Rev. Bishop Boncum, of the Catholic Diocese of Lincoln; Father O'Brien, of Seward, and Father Kline, of Brainerd, tonight were driven from this village by an angry mob of some 200 persons. The bishop and his priests had come to Ulysses to take possession of a church of which Father Murphy had held charge. Sympathizers of Father Murphy, both Catholics and others, joined the mob. Father Murphy had done violence to the bishop and the priests had not been for the strenuous efforts of Father Murphy, who counseled the mob to do no violence, and requested that the visitors be let alone. So threatening, however, was the aspect that Father O'Brien got a lively ride, and with Bishop Boncum and Father Kline, left in the direction of David City.

This rig was followed by an automobile full of church enemies of the bishop. The rig was overtaken three miles from town and the bishop and the priests were forced to get out and walk while the liveryman was made to drive the mob to their hotel.

When last seen the bishop and the priests were walking along the road toward David City. They were not harmed, but were made to "beg" them, "mob them," and to treat them to various indignities.

TO ATTACK SUGAR TRUST

Federal Attorneys Begin Work and Fight for Larger Share of Profits.

NEW YORK, June 18.—United States District Attorney Crim and Assistant District Attorney Wise were busily engaged to-day preparing a bill of indictment against the American Sugar Refining Company for presentation to the grand jury next week. The bill of indictment, which was recently brought against the company by George H. Wickersham, purporting to have been a witness in the case of the American Sugar Refining Company, and which was settled out of court by the conditional payment of $2,000,000, forms the basis of the Federal inquiry about to be begun.

Assistant District Attorney Crim, who is in charge of the case, declared that as yet nothing definite had been done and that it was not at all certain that the case would be ready for presentation to the grand jury by next Monday.

Attorney-General Wickersham was at the Federal building.

Brandenburg Springs Surprise in Trial

NEW YORK, June 18.—The authenticity of two words—Grover Cleveland and Richard Watson Gilder—was the subject of a surprise in the trial of the Brandenburg Springs case to-day. The magazine writer, charged with grand larceny for the sale to the New York Times of a photograph of the late President, was told by Mr. Cleveland, who had been called to the stand, that he had written the words, "I am not a politician," which were found on a note in the possession of the defendant.

This rather surprising admission, which was made by Mr. Cleveland, was the subject of a surprise in the trial of the Brandenburg Springs case to-day.

Testimony in Sensational Suit for Separation Keeps Edging Closer and Closer to Leading Man in "The Virginian"—More Talk About Whiskey and Bad Temper.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The flow of testimony in the suit for separation brought by Katherine Clemons against her millionaire husband, Howard Gould, kept edging more and more to-day toward Dustin Farnum, the actor, whose broad shoulders and mop of curly hair have become very familiar in this case.

There was also iteration and reiteration by servants and personal attendants of statements that Mrs. Gould was repeatedly seen under the influence of liquor, and that when she had been drinking, she changed from a charming, affable woman to a woman of wit and caprice, ill-tempered, not nice in her choice of language, overbearing and quarrelsome. Mrs. Gould's one-time personal valet swore that he once served his mistress with two quarts of Manhattan cocktails in as many days, besides the wines and liquors which he said she drank at the table.

Endearing Epithets.

Endearing epithets marked the testimony of John H. Kimball, an oil and paint dealer, who said he had known Mr. Gould for eighteen years, testified that he went to a performance of "The Virginian" in August 1906, with Mr. and Mrs. Gould, and that he saw the actor in the role of Farnum, the star in the play, joined the party outside the playhouse after the performance, testified that once when Mrs. Gould was drinking, she said to him: "This is my new beau."

John Flynn, who said he was employed by Mrs. Gould as a chauffeur and often drove her to meet Farnum after the play, testified that once when Mrs. Gould was drinking, she said to him: "This is my new beau."

BISHOP CANDLER CHOSEN

Selected as Third Arbitrator of Georgia Strike, but May Not Accept.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—Bishop Warren A. Candler, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Georgia, was to-day agreed upon as the third arbitrator in the dispute between the Georgia Railroad Company and its firemen. The selection was made at a conference between the secretary of the Georgia Railroad Company, A. Herbert, and Representative Hardwick, of Georgia, the other two arbitrators.

May Not Accept.

ATLANTA, GA., June 18.—It is not at all certain that Bishop Candler will accept the position of third arbitrator in the
